Saint-Saens' first opera is presented here in its final version, dating from 1914, the last of ten revisions over a period of almost fifty years. The dynamic conducting of François-Xavier Roth and the exceptionally precise and fiery performance of the period-instrument orchestra Les Siècles demonstrate that Saint-Saens was doubtless right to persist in considering the work as one of his masterpieces.

Clark.Playground In A Lake.

$16.98

Hamburg: Deutsche Grammophon ©2021 DEGR B003346102 2 0289483987

Debut album on Deutsche Grammophon by the prolific 21st century producer, multi-instrumentalist and composer. 'Playground in a Lake' has been over five years in the making, slowly unearthing a new style and the right, unique musical vocabulary to capture a vast notion. Clark delivers a full concept work that touches and intertwines themes of climate change and lost innocence. Using boundary-pushing elements, this recording tears through the fabric of traditional composing.

Mozart & Contemporaries. $16.98
 Hamburg: Deutsche Grammophon ©2021 DEGR B003418902 2 0289486052
 Juxtaposing works by Mozart, Haydn and C.P.E. Bach with rarely-recorded Galuppi and Cimarosa, Mozart & Contemporaries dispels the image of Mozart as the angelic and prodigious idiot savant, instead presenting a mature composer through music primarily dating from the 1780s. All is artfully brought together by Olafsson's signature thought-provoking programming.

Centered around French composers taking inspiration from Spain and Spanish composers, Séguedilles is a mix of opera arias and songs from composers Bizet, Massenet, de Falla, Mompou, Offenbach, Guridi, Ravel, and Saint-Saëns. It features hits such as the Habanera from Bizet's Carmen and Falla's Viván los que rien from La Vida breve. Crebassa portrays 5 strong female characters Carmen, Dulcinée, Concepcion, Périchole, and Salud. New York: Erato ©2021 ERA 672924 2 190296729249

This set brings together all the studio recordings made by the virtuoso pianist Georges Cziffra (1921-1994) for EMI and Philips, from his first 25cm LP released in 1956 when he arrived in Paris, to the last sessions in the Senlis chapel in 1986 a few years before he died. This thirty-year period covers a consistently varied and thrilling repertoire, the lion share constituted by Liszt and Chopin, but also dazzling improvisations, paraphrases and transcriptions which also bear witness to his mastery, imagination, and musicality. Along with the test recordings from French archive released in 2008, this collection includes for first time a studio recital recorded in Tokyo in 1967 and a live of Tchaikovsky Piano Concerto No. 1 caught in 1957, with Carlo Maria Giulini.

The first joint album from countertenor Philippe Jaroussky and guitarist Thibaut Garcia, À sa guitare takes its name from a song by the 20th century French composer Francis Poulenc. But its frame of reference is extraordinarily wide / both culturally and stylistically. It's 22 tracks range across 400 years and music by composers and songwriters from France, Britain, Austria, Italy, Spain, Brazil, Argentina and the USA.<http://www.tfront.com/p-511456-a-sa-guitare.aspx>L'arpeggiata.Alla Napoletana / Christina Pluhar.*

Christina Pluhar, L'Arpeggiata and eight guest singers explore the musical highways and byways of Naples, the most intoxicating and idiosyncratic of Italy's large cities. Alla Napoletana, a double album, expresses the city's mercurial personality in music from the 17th to the 20th centuries, embracing the operatic style of the so-called Neapolitan School, which rose to prominence in the late 1700s, and popular songs and dances. Among them are several examples of the tarantella, the lively, sometimes frenzied dance that epitomizes southern Italy.<http://www.tfront.com/p-395714-alla-napoletana-christina-pluhar.aspx>

Breaking a silence of nearly 270 years: an unexpected revival of Rameau's Achante et Céphise, this album is under the baton of Alexis Kossenko, with Les Chantres du CMBV and Les Ambassadeurs, starring Sabine Devieille, Cyrille Dubois, David Witczak, Judith van Wanroij. Jean-François Marmonte's libretto combines mythology and fairytale in a single subject, mixing the magical powers of the evil genie, Oroès, with traditional tributes to Venus and Love.

Melancholy Grace - Melancolia. $18.98

Paris: Erato ©2021 ERA 500899 2 190295008994

Melancholy Grace is a poetic collection of keyboard music from the 16th and 17th centuries by composers from Italy, the Netherlands, England and Germany. The French harpsichordist Jean Rondeau has conceived the album as a sombre, but eloquent dialogue between two contrasting voices: melancholy conveyed through chromaticism and melancholy conveyed through the musical expression of tears and weeping. Among the eight chromatic composers are Frescobaldi, Luigi Rossi, Luzzaschi and Sweelinck, while the weeping composers are Dowland, Bull, Gibbons, Valente and Scheidemann (who has an anonymous piece attributed to him). Dowland's Lachrimae Verae (True Tears) closes the program, but in some senses forms the conceptual starting point for the Melancholy Grace.

Maurice Ravel was a versatile and eclectic composer who took his inspiration from many sources, but especially from music of the eighteenth century and French Baroque. His Menuet antique, Pavane pour une infante défunte, Valses nobles et sentimentales and Tombeau de Couperin are fine illustrations of that interest and inspiration, and they are the works presented on this new recording by Clément Lefebvre.

MV 001 8436597689427

On 19 January 1977, Federico Mompou (1893-1987) performed live at the Fundación Juan March, playing one of his most important piano works: the fourth and final book of Música callada (Silent Music), a kind of meditation in sound. Four decades later, having been meticulously restored, the only live recording Mompou ever made of this work is presented here. The other work on the program at that historic concert was the composer's Cinq mélodies sur des textes de Paul Valéry, sung by its dedicatee, soprano Montserrat Alavedra (1945-1991).
